Resolution Format Guidelines 2022

The Resolutions Committee of the Diocesan Convention of the Episcopal Diocese of South Carolina has revised the format of Resolutions that may come before the Convention. In the interest of expeditious handling of business before the Convention, this format will help delegates to focus on what is actually being voted upon as distinct from the reasons behind the proposed resolution.

The main change is that "Whereas clauses" that have typically preceded the actual resolution are eliminated. The explanatory information will follow the body of the Resolution proposed, and will be an explanatory paragraph rather than a string of formalistic phrases. Why? Because the only thing for debate and/ or vote is the text of the actual resolution. Putting the actual resolution first and explanations after will help focus on our business.

RESOLUTION FORMAT:

Resolved that the 232nd Annual Diocesan Convention of the Diocese of South Carolina establish a task force to examine moving hurricane season from its current position in the calendar to the season of Lent.

Explanation: While meteorologists claim that hurricane season is more or less immovable, some local theologians have determined that tropical storms are more suited to the penitential spirit of the season of Lent. Additionally, a firm end-date for hurricane season at the feast of Easter would make it easier to plan late-summer trips to the beach.

Please note: All who propose resolutions are asked to form their resolutions in this format. Submissions that do not follow this format will be returned to the proposer for re-drafting. If the Resolutions Committee re-formats your resolution, errors in emphasis may occur. We will be glad to consult with any proposers to "perfect" the formation of your resolution.
